A Place for Everything: The Curious History of Alphabetical Order

by Judith Flanders

Where is the cereal shelved? With the other cereal, of course, same aisle as oatmeal and maple syrup, probably middle of the store. Milk is with sour cream, sugar is with flour, and strawberries are over by bananas. From groceries to gadgets, most things in our lives are categorized and as you'll see in "A Place for Everything" by Judith Flanders, that's sometimes as simple as A-B-C.

Long before the invention of the letters you see on this page, humans communicated with symbols. That was easy, but also complicated: a haphazardly-placed symbol might indicate a bird, for instance, but if paired with something else etched near it, it had a different meaning. Not until the Sumerians invented cuneiform did orderly rows and columns become standard for most communication; still, cuneiform was "ideographic" and abstract. "Writing," says Flanders, "was altogether a complex business" that historians believe was invented just three times: the Chinese used written words as early as 1600 BCE, scholarly Egyptians embraced written words, and so did the Mayans. As for the alphabet itself, it seems to have been a collaboration, invented just once, probably near Egypt. Some three thousand years ago, it spread to Europe.

The alphabet led to the writing of scrolls, then books, both of which were created by hand, meaning that works were copied, reorganized, changed, and adapted then. Books ultimately became popular enough that Ptolemy I demanded one for his library from everyone who traveled through his kingdom. His obsession, The Library of Alexandria, was "probably" one of the first to alphabetically organize the volumes it contained.

As use of alphabetization increased, it wasn't without controversy: clerics demanded that "God" come before everything else, but what if "God" was deus? Others said chronology made more organizing sense. When you remember that spelling might differ between people and nations, and letters may've been changed slightly or added, you can see the mess. And it lasted until just a little over a century ago...

For someone like you, a lover of the written word (you haven't stopped reading yet, right?), there's good news: "A Place for Everything" covers nearly everything having to do with the invention of writing, including books, paper, documents, and even furniture. And yet, at its core, this is a book about organizing one small corner of human evolution, and author Judith Flanders is quick to remind readers of that. Readers who struggle with clutter will be astounded at (and impressed by) the sheer number of items that our ancestors invented and accumulated, which then needed to be sorted – a list that grew along with culture and knowledge. For the curious word-lover, or the a fan of ancient history or historically-based timeline writing, that's extraordinarily delightful.

Whether clay tablet, clutch purse, or closet, there are steps for sorting, and there's a constant shuffle and re-working to make things more find-able. "A Place for Everything," this book about alphabetization, tells part of that story in a surprising chronological order. It's up to you to decide where to shelve it. ■

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF CECILIA R. HERNANDEZ, Decedent

Case Number: 20PR00368

TO ALL HEIRS, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of CECILIA R. HERNANDEZ.

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by RAUL H. RAMIREZ, in the Superior Court of California, County of SANTA CRUZ.

THE PETITION requests that RAUL H. RAMIREZ, be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held in this court as follows:

Date: NOVEMBER 18, 2020

Time: 8:30 a.m. Dept. 4

The address of the Court is 701 Ocean St., Santa Cruz, CA 95060.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the Court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the Court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code. Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the Court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the Court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.
