A Century of Tomorrows: How Imagining the Future Shapes the Present

by Glenn Adamson

The weather forecast for this weekend is great and you've got big plans.

For sure you'll get outside, get together with friends, have some fun; you've got a major project coming up at work and it'll be stressful, so you'll want to grab some down-time while you can. Just thinking about it will make you smile all week because, as you'll see in the new book "A Century of Tomorrows" by Glenn Adamson, your personal forecast is sunny.

It's a safe bet that humans have been making prognostications since they first stood upright. Where's the best place to hunt? Where might danger lie? Ancient Sumerians left prophecies on clay tablets, while others predicted the future via knuckle bones, tarot cards, Prophets and later, through scammy seers and secret knocks.

In the 1920s, Evangelists and religious men predicted the end of the world again and again and, at around the same time, the nephew of Sigmund Freud learned how to manipulate consumers by using his uncle's psychoanalytical predictions to insert "subtle messages" into advertising. In the 1930s, experts believed that society should be "managed," in part, by statisticians; Adamson says that one of the "converts" to the idea was Elon Musk's grandfather.

We even hosted a World's Fair based on prognostication.

When robots began to catch the attention of mid-twentieth century Americans, predictions of highly automated life and vast changes in the workplace were hailed. A proliferation of the subject in literature and Hollywood was the next natural step and as technology eased into medicine, peering into the future spread from the doctor's office to the laboratory, insurance companies and funeral homes, in an attempt to make sense of illness, life, and death.

You don't have to look far to see it: in politics, business, and finance, we still try to see into the future, even if we don't realize we're doing it. This illusion of control, as Adamson indicates, helps us mortals feel better, so "We may as well try and look forward, as far as we can."

One peek at your calendar Sunday night, and you (mostly) know what kind of week you can anticipate having. Says author Glenn Adamson in "A Century of Tomorrows," this tossing of the dice is comforting, and so ingrained in humanity that we barely even notice the presence of "futurology," though we obviously rely a great deal on it.

Scoff if you will about seers and psychics and unbelievable doomsdayers, but prediction, says Adamson, is important to humans. You likely do a great deal of prognostication of your own, as he shows, and you do it spontaneously and quite purposefully. What's fascinating is that your predictions, like most, fall into one of six wide categories that will surprise you and make sense to you, once they're pointed out.

You're right if you predict that you'll like this book because it's a fun read that twists and turns in history, science, business, and culture. The other thing you'll like: "A Century of Tomorrows" could help you weather what's to come.

KENNETH A. HARDY, Decedent

Case Number: 24PR00562

TO ALL heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of KENNETH A. HARDY.

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by LVS HARDY in the Superior Court of California, County of SANTA CRUZ.

(This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held in this court as follows:

Date: JANUARY 29, 2025, Time: 8:30AM

The address of the Court is 701 Ocean St., Santa Cruz, CA 95060.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the Court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the Court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. The undersigned or its predecessor caused said Notice of Default and Election to Sell to be recorded in the county where the real property is located. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (855) 313-3319 or visit this Internet website www.clearreconcorp.com, using the file number assigned to this case 126715-CA. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. NOTICE TO TENANT: Effective January 1, 2021, you may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call (855) 313-3319, or visit this internet website www.clearreconcorp.com, using the file number assigned to this case 126715-CA to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase.
